

Young Writers Project Highlights of 2020-21

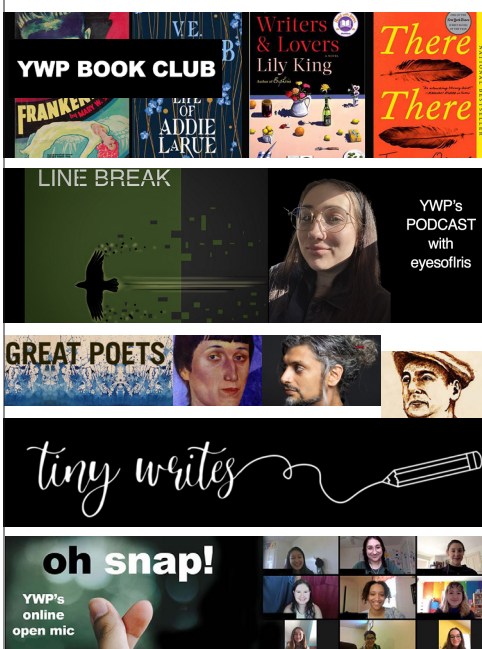

NEW WEBSITE

CONTESTS & CHALLENGES

YOUTH-LED PROJECTS

Young Writers Project's redesigned site, youngwritersproject.org, launched in summer 2021 with a fresh, new look and an emphasis on YWP's synergy of writing and art.

Anthology 12, YWP's collection of the best of the 2020-21 school year, was published in September 2021 and is available for purchase on our site. While you're there, take a moment to read The Voice, our monthly, online magazine. Both publications showcase the remarkable depth and range of the YWP community. Rounding out our publishing opportunities are our regular features published by our Vermont media partners, with a focus on our Community Journalism Project.

Twice a year, YWP holds writing and visual art contests with cash prizes and publication. In spring 2021, YWP and the volunteer tree-keepers of Branch Out Burlington! co-sponsored A Celebration of Trees, one of our most successful contests in quantity and quality.

Embracing our online format, poet Reuben Jackson in Washington, D.C., and teaching artist Alex Muck in Middlebury, VT, co-hosted poetry workshops via Zoom, as did teen photography coach lauren m.

Youth-led, youth-powered, the YWP community is bubbling with creative energy: The inspired Great Poets feature, the lively Tiny Writes and Book Club discussion forums, Oh Snap! open mics, and a podcast called Line Break that has just marked 50 episodes with YWP host eyesofiris!

SPECIAL THANKS TO YWP BOARD

Hillary Read, President; Aimee Picchi, Vice-President; Jessica Hyman, Treasurer; Kathy Folley, Recorder; Jacques Bailly, Terri Hallenbeck, Reuben Jackson, Rita Markley, Nathaniel Millarhouse, Shannon Ripp

PUBLICATIONS

ONLINE WORKSHOPS

JOURNALISM

